Blair Review 2011: The Greatest Generation

Veteran Blair faculty member Marty Miller discusses the 2011 edition of The Blair Review, featuring writings and reminiscences of Blair alumni and friends who bravely served in World War II.

Pilot Program Introduces Powerful Tablet PCs to Blair

Tablet PCs have proven to be an effective teaching tool for Blair teachers this fall.

2010 - 2011 ANNUAL REPORT

Chairman of the Board Jim Jenkins ’66 presents the Blair Academy Annual Report; Assistant Headmaster Jim Frick reports on the School’s financial position at the conclusion of an historic Blair Fund year.
After 12 years of dedicated service to Blair, Melanie McMahon, editor of the Bulletin, has accepted a position with a school in New York City. The Blair community would like to thank Melanie for her wonderful work as director of communications and wish her all the best in her new endeavor.

The summer Bulletin was devoted, and rightly so, to the rich and significant impact that David and Candy Low had on the Blair community over the 32 years that they lived and worked at the School. Ever the thoughtful leader, David gave us plenty of useful planning time to prepare for the years beyond his tenure and, in particular, the first year A.D. (“After Dave”), when the void of his assured and positive presence would be most acutely felt. Yet, of all the great truths of human life, perhaps none are more self-evident than that change is constant, that one never steps into the same river twice, and that student life must go on.

So, how did Blair fill this vacuum, the empty shoes left behind? For starters, the School was fortunate in having an experienced and capable veteran dean of students who worked under David Low in Student Affairs. Carm Mazza started at Blair the same year I did, as the director of dining operations. Over the years, however, Carm expanded his role, first simply by taking an active interest in student life, and eventually by moving into Insley Hall and becoming the Housemaster. Several years of success in that position led to Carm’s making the full jump to Student Affairs, becoming the dean as his experience and responsibilities grew. Together, David Low and Carm Mazza formed what felt like an indispensible team leading Student Affairs at Blair. However, David’s departure last year provided a unique transition opportunity: rather than seek to fill David’s position with one, shining new leader—essentially an impossible choice—we would reconfigure the office by creating a three-person team.

One important element of this transition was the central responsibility of the School to reflect our 40-year coeducational history by bringing a female leader to our Student Affairs Office. As we embarked on a search for the right candidate, we knew there were strong women candidates amongst the faculty, one of whom particularly stood out. Jessica Matzkin came to Blair in 2008 as the first School counselor and was eventually named Blair’s director of counseling. In a few short years, Jess was leading our counseling program so successfully that she received an offer from a New England boarding school to join its staff in that same capacity. However, Jess was drawn to the Blair community, its culture and opportunities, and so she remained. When it became public that there would be a search for the Student Affairs position, Jess decided to become a candidate. Still, we conducted a full search, interviewing several strong candidates, and, in doing so, confirmed that Jess was the best choice for Blair.

Finally, we appointed Peter Curran, the Bowdoin/ Harvard-educated dean of students at Fountain Valley School, to round out our Students Affairs Office. Peter brings to Blair a wealth of experience, especially in administrative technology, and he helps strengthen a remarkably capable mid-career group of men and women faculty at Blair. His fresh eyes and positive energy, combined with Carm Mazza’s experience and Jessica Matzkin’s significant ability, have created a truly dynamic and responsive Student Affairs Office, a fact confirmed by the seamless and smooth transition as we opened our 164th year at Blair. Together, Carm, Jess and Peter met the expectations of new and old students, organized and responded to the variety of programmatic challenges that greet any new school year, and focused pro-actively on the individual students and parents who needed their support. It was a strong and positive opening for the School community.

Over the years, Blair has seen a number of career faculty retire, leaving the reins of their teaching, coaching, administrating and professional experience in the hands of younger men and women, who are themselves now becoming iconic Blair teachers. As I watch our young and mid-career faculty become great educators, I am confident that Blair’s faculty will continue to be the School’s greatest asset.
Dr. Marty Miller—veteran history teacher, director of the Society of Skeptics program and editor of The Blair Review—is pleased to note that last year’s revival of the Review continues without interruption. He explains the concept of this compendium, “From 1985–2000, an annual edition showcased the writing of various Blair community members: current teachers and former students, alumni and visiting lecturers. Simply stated, the aim was to share ideas with a wider audience. So much of the Blair intellectual experience cannot be instantaneously translated into a thoughtfully conceived, accessible package for those off campus; hence the rationale for this journal. Quoting from the 2000 introduction: ‘What is heard in, say, a relatively small lecture forum has limited impact; what is produced in a classroom for a particular course is invariably lost to the community. Papers are filed away without much thought, and speeches are given and fade from memory. Well, the Review represents one small effort to reverse this situation.’”

The Blair Review also owes its existence to Ann Williams, director of Timken Library, who created the layout and works in tandem with Marty to produce this publication. A pdf version of the Review can be accessed online from Blair’s website (www.blair.edu). Marty describes the contents of this year’s edition, below.

The 2011 edition of The Blair Review pays homage to the school’s “greatest generation,” the World War II-era Blair boys who participated in the grand struggle for the survival of democracy. Why the current interest in a far-off period, ever so distant from current Blair students? It’s as if the men of 1941 were asked to glance back some 70 years to post-Civil War Reconstruction. Well, a confluence of the following events and factors led us in the direction of the WWII theme:

- A treasure trove of WWII correspondence between soldiers, parents, Headmaster Breed and faculty members was uncovered and painstakingly cataloged in the Timken Library archive by Ann Williams, Blair’s librarian and co-editor of the this journal.
- In recent years, alumni have written memoir pieces and reached a certain age when reflection, the unforgiving march of biological clocks and perhaps the wish to convey a message to young folks all became paramount in their lives.
- A fair number of WWII “vets” are regulars on campus, speaking to students and supporting school programs; they never fail to elicit faculty and student interest in their past experiences.
- Teachers have requested accessible, first-person combatant accounts to enliven the curriculum.
- And, yes, we affluent “boomers” have a special debt to the “old fellas,” to be partially repaid by presenting the stories of those who sacrificed so dearly for our security and good fortune.

The life of William “Buck” Dawson ’39, founding executive director of the International Swimming Hall of Fame and decorated officer of the 82nd Airborne, is portrayed in the new Blair Review. Buck is pictured here with Presidents Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan, both avid swimmers.
The stellar military career of William “Buck” Dawson ’39, who died in 2008 and was a much decorated officer of the 82nd Airborne and an irrepressible spirit, comes to life in biographical pieces, letters from his mother and faculty member Harold Walker. The Dawson family friend and Pennsylvania neighbor Frank Shumann ’42 is remembered only by a formal military notice, a brief account of extraordinary heroism during the battle for Okinawa that speaks volumes. And mild mannered, fun-loving George Stern ’39, for many years a Blair Trustee and chairman of the Budget Committee, turns out to be a daring and effective fighter pilot in the European theater. A Normandy campaign (1944) casualty, Michael Habermann ’41, describes the destruction of French villages and countryside and the grievous losses among the civilian population. He also writes about Elliot “Buzz” Moorhead ’41 and his exploits behind enemy lines. Archer Martin ’42, another wounded veteran who fought in Normandy, adds a preface to the comments of Blair students who benefited from Archer’s support of a yearly trip to D-Day beaches, museums, cemeteries and local villages. The home front is represented by W. Don Stewart ’41’s reminiscence of daily campus life; Dr. Ching-Yin Au ’43’s note about a Chinese youth fleeing the Asian tide of war; a heartwarming story of the Schelling family and the Academy opening their doors to the Eu clan; and a Polish immigrant mother successfully beseeching Dr. Breed to make room for dear son Mark Chramiec ’46. And finally, a 2011 Blair graduate, Alan Meskin, conjures up what historian Timothy Snyder called the “Bloodlands,” the Eastern front where the most hideous slaughters of WWII took place. What follows is the intro to the Dawson section…

A sampling of the evocative correspondence between Buck Dawson, Mrs. Dawson, Headmaster Breed and esteemed faculty member Harold Walker takes the reader on a journey through an enormously difficult period in the history of this country. The existential fascist threat to a democratic society was met by determined individuals trying to cope with the extraordinary challenges of daily life. Consider an upbeat, devil-may-care Buck shipping out to Europe, bravado and all, eventually transformed into a mature soldier brooding about man’s inhumanity to man and the responsibility of all Americans to learn from the experience of endless warfare, stunning levels of civilian casualties and, yes, Holocaust genocide. Mary Dawson holds down the home front with grit and pride, meticulously following her boys from battle to battle, reveling in their service, indeed heroes, always prepared to add a touch of timely, motherly advice to Buck and Bob. How can you not love a parent who reminds an errant son of improper spelling in the midst of a world war? And her musing about fall football days for spirited Blair athletes contrasts so poignantly to the deathly “game” of warfare. We meet Dr. Breed and Mr. Walker valiantly keeping their beloved flock of Blair boys connected to the school with news of classmates, messages of encouragement and plans to honor those who have served and sacrificed during the war years. As we move back and forth from the grand fronts of warfare to the hopes and dreams of individuals, the courage and downright decency of these “Blair folks” are apparent on every page of writing. They represent more than simply the touted “greatest generation,” rather Americans of all ages ready to sacrifice for the common good. Reading through this material leaves one with the distinct impression that a rather large debt is owed by all of us who have benefited and indeed thrived during the post-war years. And, oh, to have met Buck and the others before they passed away!

Blair Alumna Joins Advancement Office
With a “Buccaneer” family lineage too long to detail, Bridget Hodakowski ’99 returned to Blair as assistant director of annual giving in August. She is excited to be back on campus—a place near and dear to her heart. Bridget is a former member of Blair’s Board of Governors and a proud alum. While at Blair, Bridget served as a Blue and White Key member, played varsity field hockey and softball, and served as a student body leader.

Upon graduating from the School in 1999, she attended Dickinson College, where she received a B.A. in political science. She ultimately found her passion in education while working as an assistant director in both undergraduate and graduate admissions at Stevens Institute of Technology (Hoboken, N.J.). Bridget lives with her husband, Marc, and their son, Jack, in Columbia, N.J.

To Sea What They Could See
Science teacher Rob Merrifield reports on a recent adventure he took with four students, Graham Merrifield ’14, Sovann Stark ’14, Kris Patane ’13 and Ali Surdoval ’13, to the coast of Maine in June. Accompanying the group was Sue Stark, Sovann’s mother, who has done a great deal of kayaking in a variety of international locations.

Rob noted, “After driving eight hours, we loaded our kayaks with food, water, clothing and camping gear and launched from Round Pond into Muscongus Bay. Each day we paddled a different section of the bay and utilized three different island campsites that are part of the Maine Island Trail Association. A typical day involved rising at dawn, preparing breakfast, packing all of our gear into our boats, paddling to the next island, setting up camp, and exploring the island. Each student took a turn as navigator for the day while everyone pitched in to cook and clean up meals. Wildlife sightings included a bald eagle nest, numerous osprey, seals and dolphins. One afternoon we also collected fresh mussels that we steamed and added to a marinara sauce. Despite some cold, windy, rainy weather during the first two days, the students took it all in stride, then thoroughly enjoyed the next three days of gorgeous warm, sunny conditions.”

At Blair’s opening Trustee/faculty dinner, faculty and staff were honored for 25 and 10 years of dedicated service: (standing) Carolyn Conforti-Browse ’79 and Latta Browse (25 years); (seated, L to R) Brad Strauss, Mike Sayers, Quint Clarke ’87 and Jason Beck (10 years).
Admission Office Releases New Videos

Dean Speaks at TABS Conference

We are pleased to announce the summer release of three new Blair videos produced for the admission office and designed to provide an in-depth look at the academic, art and athletic programs offered at Blair. These materials—all available for viewing on the Blair website—complement the video, entitled “Life on the Hilltop,” released earlier this spring. That particular video, according to Dean of Admission Ryan Pagotto, “defines the distinguishing characteristics of a Blair education: engaging teachers who make their classrooms an exciting place to learn, an unparalleled sense of community, and outstanding extracurricular offerings.” He adds, “These three new releases provide a more comprehensive view of what students can expect from Blair’s rigorous academic program. At the same time, viewers can experience first-hand the genuine excitement and enthusiasm generated by our extracurricular programs in arts and athletics.”

The new admission videos were a collaborative effort between the Blair offices of admission and communications, which partnered once again with Snavely Associates, Ltd., a communications and design firm led by Larry Snavely ’67. Chris Snavely ’96 served as project manager.

Ryan served as a faculty member and presenter for The Association of Boarding Schools (TABS) summer conference held at Boston University this past July. He noted, “The conference attracts admission officers and communications directors from boarding schools across the country. This summer’s focus was on admission and marketing strategy, with presentations on the international and domestic markets, mobilizing human capital, tuition and financial aid, developing a digital strategy, and how social media is reshaping boarding school search and selection.”

Chairman Emeritus Reflects on a Life Well-Lived

Dr. J. Brooks Hoffman ’36 has been a Blair Trustee since 1958—more than a half-century of service. He was Chairman of the Board from 1962 to 1978 and responsible for guiding the School through one of the most fiscally challenging periods in its history. His grandson, J. Brooks Hoffman III ’13, is currently a junior at Blair. Below are excerpts from a September interview with Dr. Hoffman that appeared in the Greenwich Citizen, sharing the story of a life well-lived:

Q. How long have you lived in Greenwich?
A. Since 1950.

Q. How do you think Greenwich has changed over the years?
A. Not for the better. It was a nice town with some 40,000 people, but not more than 60,000. New England has gotten too big for its shoes.

Q. Are you married? How long?
A. I was married to Jane Helwig Hoffman for 66 years. She died a month ago. In December 1942, during a blackout in New York City (it was wartime), he ran into Jane Helwig, a student nurse at Presbyterian Hospital. His mind was made up at that point. It took a long time before Jane would say ‘yes,’ but two and one-half years later, they were married on June 14, Flag Day, in 1945. They went on their honeymoon to the Skytop Lodge in the Poconos. ‘It was all the gas I could get,’ he said, ‘with the war still on with Japan. There were 26 other couples honeymooning when we were there.’

Q. What did you do when you were working full time?
A. Obstetrician/gynecologist. I established the first OB/GYN specialty in Greenwich in 1950. In that time, I must have delivered more than 2,500 babies.

Q. What was the most important thing you learned from your work?
A. Be patient. Time heals all wounds.

Q. What are your main hobbies and interests?
A. Trout fishing has been an important part of my life. I like to play golf, all sorts of sports, and travel. And American history. I’ve given a lot of important documents to Williams College, including the British answer to the Declaration of Independence.

Q. What is a TV show that you watch regularly?
A. “Antiques Roadshow.”

Q. Who do you think was the best president of the United States—and why?
A. That’s a tough question—so many did so many important things. I’ll show you why I’m choosing this one—James Polk. All he did was go on a minor skirmish in the Mexican-American War. The war was settled by the Treaty of Guadalupe (1848), which gave us a bunch of territories: California, part of the Dakotas, Colorado, Wyoming, Oklahoma, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, too, I suppose. None of that would be a part of the U.S. if we hadn’t had Polk. He felt we had to have territory to the Pacific coast. People don’t have any conception of this. Mexico went all the way to the Canadian border.

Q. What achievements in your life are you most proud of?
A. Bringing success to my prep school, Blair Academy in Blairstown, N.J. I was Chairman of the Board for 16 years. We turned it around at that time. He also endowed the chair in American history, and the health center at the school was given in his name. In 1993, the school awarded him a Citation of Merit and an Emeritus position on the Board. It was John C. Bogle, distinguished Princeton scholar, founder of the Vanguard Group of Funds, and former Chairman of the Board of Blair, who stated without reservation, ‘It was Brooks, with his untiring devotion and leadership, who saved Blair Academy.’

Q. Best piece of advice to give to the younger generation?
A. Never look back—always look forward.

Q. What brings you your greatest joy?
A. You should have asked me that before my wife died. I have a good family for which I’m very grateful. I’m content with what I have.
Financial Expert Explores Economic Boom and Bust

“Is The Chinese Bubble Ready To Burst?” appeared in the June 20 edition of InstitutionalInvestor.com and mentioned three Blair alumni—Jack Bogle ’47, Mitch Jennings ’63 and Vikram Mansharamani ’92. Writer Andrew Barber began, “The discussion of whether or not the Chinese economy is a bubble destined to collapse... has become a favorite Wall Street parlor game over the past year... One strong voice in this debate is Vikram Mansharamani, a managing director at Boston-based SDK Capital and a lecturer at Yale where he teaches a seminar on economic boom and bust cycles that served as the basis for his book, BOOMBUSTOLOGY: Spotting Financial Bubbles Before They Burst, which was published earlier this year. Mansharamani holds a Ph.D. and two master’s degrees from MIT.”

Barber continued, “Mansharamani had an unlikely path to high finance. The son of an auto service technician and a dietician, he won a scholarship funded by Jack Bogle to attend Blair Academy, a private, co-ed boarding school in northwestern New Jersey. Starting at the age of 16, Mansharamani began an unusual series of summers interning on the institutional equity sales and trading desk at Bear Stearns, where he reported to Mitch Jennings, a Blair alumnus, and Ricky Greenfield. After high school, he entered Yale where he spent his summers very differently—working at the American Enterprise Institute where he assisted the legendary Sinologist and diplomat James Lilley. The experience at AEI led to fieldwork in Asia (including a summer at the U.S. Embassy in Beijing) that ultimately sealed his fate as a China-focused investor.”

Vikram spoke to a packed house at Skeptics on September 27 on the prediction of economic bubbles and the state of China today. For more information about Vikram or his book, visit www.boombustology.com.

Todd Ruppert ’74 Aids in Royal Challenge

The June 21 edition of The Baltimore Sun included an article by Erica Green entitled, “Prince Edward Presents City’s Youth a Royal Challenge,” featuring Todd Ruppert ’74, president of T. Rowe Price International. Green wrote, “At-risk youth in Baltimore city will have an opportunity to join an international network of young people in taking on a royal challenge to improve their lives by participating in the Duke of Edinburgh’s Award-Young American’s Challenge. Prince Edward visited Tuesday with students of the Living Classrooms Foundation to announce that Baltimore would join 132 countries and 20 states and Washington, D.C., in the program.”

The article continued, “The prince, joined by Mayor Stephanie Rawlings-Blake and Miss America 2011 Teresa Scanlan, spent more than an hour touring the Fells Point campus, engaging in a conversation with nearly every student and instructor he encountered... ‘I’m just so delighted by how you all really know each other,’ the prince told a group of students, staff and representatives of various youth organizations.”

The article explained that the prince was “invited to Baltimore by Todd Ruppert, president of T. Rowe Price International, who said that after he learned of the program at a dinner with the prince earlier this year, he ‘got the bug, and wanted to spread this as far and wide as I could.’ Prince Edward seemed particularly interested in the personal journeys of Fresh Start students and staff, who did not shy away from telling the prince of the hardships, such as brushes with the juvenile justice system and other troubles, that brought them to the program.”
Jonathan Paul ’61 describes his life as an “unbroken chain of fortuitous events” set in motion by the incredible opportunity of his Blair experience. The son of former faculty member Gordon Paul, he came from a family of modest means, but Blair gave him the foundation to achieve his dreams.

Jonathan enjoyed a long career in computers that began with his first job out of Columbia University as an IBM systems engineer and concluded with his recent retirement as chief technology officer of Global Weather Dynamics, Inc. He traveled the world, visiting over 100 countries for business and pleasure. And, as pilot of his own small plane, he logged thousands of flights over the years, including a 13-hour, non-stop, coast to coast trip—in his words, “a feat!”

Recently, Jonathan and his wife, Gayle, reviewed their estate plans to decide how they eventually wanted their assets distributed. As Jonathan’s 50th Blair reunion approached, and having supported the Blair Fund loyally for years, the Pauls decided to make a bequest to Blair.

“‘You Can’t Take It With You!’”

Gayle and Jonathan Paul ’61 Make Bequest to Blair

“It was something of a revelation to realize that you don’t have to be a ‘fat cat’ rich guy to make a bequest...” —Jonathan Paul ’61

“It was something of a revelation to realize that you don’t have to be a ‘fat cat’ rich guy to make a bequest, and this gift is advantageous both to us and to Blair,” Jonathan said. He noted the tax benefits that charitable giving will have for his estate and the fact that the bequest will likely be a bigger gift to Blair than he could make in his lifetime. In addition, making this gift now allows Blair to “plan ahead a bit,” as he put it, since most estate gifts help to build the endowment.

Jonathan noted that the School has expressed great appreciation for his bequest, but, he quipped, “It’s really the most painless way to give. After all, you can’t take it with you!”
Family Dedicates Seating Area in Memory of Ruth H. and John H. Van Kirk ’42

On September 17, three generations of the Van Kirk family gathered with members of the Blair community to dedicate a beautifully landscaped seating area in loving memory of Ruth H. and John H. Van Kirk ’42. “John was the very definition of a loyal alumnus,” said Headmaster Chan Hardwick, “establishing not only a family legacy at Blair, but also a legacy of service and giving that has now been carried on by his children.”

The seating area is a gift of the five Van Kirk siblings: John R. Van Kirk ’70, James Van Kirk ’73, Meredith Janssen, Sandra Olex and Kathryn Wolff. Adjacent to West Hall, it overlooks the sweeping lawns and paths of the pedestrian campus and has become a popular meeting spot for Blair students and faculty.

John H. Van Kirk was a devoted member of the Class of 1942, a Trustee from 1989–95 and a generous supporter of the School. Five of his grandchildren attended Blair—Che de Bruin ’93, Joshua Van Kirk ’95, Rebecca Gruber ’97, Samantha Sintros ’99 and Carly Gale ’06—and all were present for the dedication.

John R. Van Kirk noted that Blair was an important part of his father’s life. “Not only did he want to preserve Blair, he wanted to share it with others,” he said. “It is our hope that the students and faculty, family and guests who pause at this seating area to enjoy the view, reflect on life, discuss the secrets of the universe or simply catch their breath will somehow understand that this man loved Blair.”
First Seven Faculty Apartments Renovated Over Summer
Your Gift for Renovations Matched Until December 31

One of the first initiatives in Blair’s strategic plan, “Building on Strength,” is to attract and retain the best possible teaching faculty. Last year, the School received a challenge gift to raise a total of $1 million by December 31, 2011, to renovate and modernize 21 of Blair’s dormitory apartments. The goal of the renovation work is to transform Blair’s dormitory housing so that the School’s best faculty members choose to remain in the dorms, living and working closely with students, rather than move to off-campus housing.

Given the age of Blair’s dormitories, current apartments were small, tired-looking and lacking in amenities such as laundry facilities, soundproofing and modern finishes. Below are a few photos that provide a sense of the impact of the renovations. Hardwood floors, new kitchens and bathrooms, built-in furniture and closets, recessed lighting and new paint throughout made many apartments almost unrecognizable to the faculty returning to Blair in the fall. This tangible investment in modern, well-appointed faculty housing will pay dividends for many years to come. The faculty who share their lives with Blair students 24 hours a day, seven days a week, are deeply appreciative of the many alumni and parents who have supported this project.

Over the next two summers, an additional 14 apartments will be renovated and fundraising efforts are ongoing. All gifts and pledges received by December 31, 2011, will be matched thanks to the challenge gift from an anonymous Blair family. To make a gift for faculty housing renovations or to discuss “naming” opportunities for apartments, please contact Sue Habermann, director of capital giving, at (908)362-6121 ext. 5653 or habers@blair.edu.
Faculty Family Loves Their New Home!

Dorm parents Tim and Ying Devaney wasted no time in sharing their newly renovated South Cottage apartment with the junior girls who are in their charge, inviting them over to watch a Yankees game on their first night back at Blair in August. “It was so nice,” Ying said. “The girls were laughing and eating watermelon, and it was very relaxed.” Tim, who is Blair’s foreign language department chairman, agreed. “It was great to talk with the girls, and they enjoyed spending time with us in the apartment. Carolyn Wan said it was her ‘best first night back ever!’ ”

Tim, Ying and their two-year-old daughter, Mary Clare, are happily settled in their spacious new home. Renovations took most of the summer to complete, but the Devaneys agree they were well worth the wait: the kitchen and bathroom were gutted and completely remodeled; a second bathroom was added; new hardwood flooring was installed; and the entire apartment was painted in beautiful tones.

“During the renovation process, I was impressed by how deeply invested the School and the administration were in this project,” Tim said. “It was great to see their excitement about faculty housing. They even asked the designer and contractor to consult with me,” he laughed, “but I pretty much left the decisions to the experts.”
Welcome, New Faculty!

Administration

Peter Curran joins Jessica Matzkin and Carm Mazza in overseeing the Office of Student Affairs, following the retirement of former Assistant Headmaster for Student Affairs David Low. Peter received a B.A. from Bowdoin College and an M.A. from the Harvard Graduate School of Education. Prior to coming to Blair, Peter was the dean of students at Fountain Valley School in Colorado since 2007. He also taught world and British literature and art history, served as an advisor and coached girls’ varsity soccer at Fountain Valley. For several years before that, he was a dean, teacher and coach at The American School in Switzerland. During the summer of 2006, Peter served as assistant dean for Harvard University’s Summer School.

Robin Scheman joins the faculty this year to work with the Headmaster and assistant headmaster on special projects. She earned a B.A. from Union College and M.A. from Columbia University. With a background in human resource management and organizational psychology, as well as expertise in strategic business planning/management and executive coaching, Robin worked most recently at Lehman Brothers, serving as managing director for the firm’s investment banking division. Robin played a key role in that company’s signature initiative to attract women returning to the work force after an extended absence. She has also held executive positions at Deutsche Bank and Bankers Trust Company.

Admission

George O’Connor, an associate in admission, attended Bates College in Maine where he earned a B.A. in Chinese. He spent a semester abroad in Shanghai, China, studying at East China Normal University. During the summer of 2006, Peter served as assistant dean for Harvard University’s Summer School.

While in China, George taught English part-time and traveled in Tibet, Mongolia and the Sichuan, Hubei and Hainan provinces. During his time at Bates, he was a four-year member of the varsity lacrosse team and involved with various community service projects. At Blair, George resides in Insley Hall, where he serves as the assistant housemaster. In addition to his work in the admission office, George coaches the boys’ varsity lacrosse team.

Alyssa Rose, another new associate in admission, is a recent graduate of Bowdoin College, where she earned a B.A. in Spanish and government and a minor in Latin American Studies. While in college, she worked in both the admission and alumni relations offices, served as a teaching assistant and tutor for Spanish 101, played violin in the orchestra, and was active in student government. During her junior year of college, she spent a semester abroad in Argentina, traveling to Peru and Chile and volunteering at a high school in Guatemala during spring break. Like her colleague, George, she enjoys athletics and is active in community service projects. Alyssa served as a Spanish teaching assistant for Dartmouth’s summer language program and teaches Spanish 1 at Blair.

Athletics

Ajaynue “AJ” Kizekai ’06 begins full-time work with Blair’s athletic department this fall, where he will serve as the School’s first strength and conditioning coach. A graduate of Bucknell University, AJ majored in sociology and minored in economics. While in college, he was a member of the football and track teams. Captain of Bucknell’s football team in 2008 and 2009, he earned numerous awards, including Patriot League All-Academic Team, 2009 Football All-American, and the 2008 Coaches Award (football). He was also a four-time, All-Patriot League selection in football. Prior to coming to Blair, AJ served as a field researcher for the Berwick Community Development Project.

Science

A recent graduate of Lafayette College where he earned a B.S. in chemistry, Colin McCullough joins the science department as a chemistry teacher. While in college, he was a member of both the cross country and track teams. Offered a Marquis Scholarship at Lafayette (the college’s highest academic scholarship), Colin was a student-athlete during his four years there. He served as an independent chemistry researcher, a teaching assistant in general chemistry, and a writing workshop instructor.

School Counseling

Tiffany Zimmerman will assume the position of Blair’s school counselor, a role formerly held by Jessica Matzkin. Tiffany earned both a B.S. and M.S.Ed from The Pennsylvania State University. Most recently she served as director of student support at the Oliverian School where she was also a dorm parent. Tiffany oversaw and supervised the counseling and health departments and provided counseling and support to all students. She also co-taught elective courses. Prior to her tenure at the Oliverian School, she worked as a counselor and advisor to a charter school in Philadelphia where she also coordinated and conducted all testing services, including the SAT and PSAT.

Vocabulary List Now Required Summer Assignment

Dean of Academics Sam Bacon emphasizes year-round learning when he announces summer reading assignments each year: “Reading broadly and intelligently are essential components of a good education, and the Blair faculty encourage reading throughout the year. The summer is no exception!”

Beginning this past June, Blair students were directed to the first set of words of what will become, in the years ahead, a standard Blair vocabulary list of nearly 1,000 words; the first year’s list started with 180 words and increased over the summer to 250 words, total. Sam advised parents, “While vocabulary is covered in the classroom, the wise student and family will begin to master words throughout the year, beginning with the summer.” Beyond preparation for standardized testing, mastering a sophisticated and varied vocabulary is an essential element in becoming an effective writer and compelling public speaker.
Plan Call for Quiz Bowl Expansion

Beginning last year, mathematics teacher Nate Molteni spearheaded the organization of a weekly event on Blair’s campus, namely, the “Blair Quiz Bowl”—a game focused on teams competing over their knowledge of academic trivia. Nate explained, “There were probably 20 members on the team, with a mix of all grade levels. We met at least once a week to practice.” Nate also conducted a quiz bowl during the Headmasters’ Societies Games.

He noted, “This year, I am going to try to promote regular training, which comes in the form of studying specialized subjects, such as Greek mythology or American literature.”

As reported in the Summer 2011 Bulletin, four students traveled with Nate in April to Washington, D.C., to compete in the National History Bowl Tournament. He said at the time: “Our students were up against teams that have been playing for years, while we really had just six weeks of practice. So it was a testament to our students’ ability and dedication that we went as far as we did. I was very proud of what they accomplished in a short amount of time.”

Nate intends to step up his quiz bowl efforts this school year, outlining his goals as follows:

- Expand the program to include both JV and varsity levels
- Attend one fall tournament for novice players
- Qualify one JV and one varsity team for History Bowl Nationals in New Jersey
- Attend the New Jersey State Championships in the spring

Blair and the Bard
Students Enjoy Production of Othello

On September 29, 110 Blair sophomores and faculty traveled to Madison, N.J., to see a production of Othello by The Shakespeare Theatre of New Jersey. The trip was made possible through funding established in 2004 by Blair parent Dr. Alan Jeffrey, father of Aron Jeffrey ’94, to enhance and support the teaching of Shakespeare. These monies also fund the Edyth Jeffrey Shakespeare Prize, named in memory of Dr. Jeffrey’s mother and awarded annually to those Blair students who demonstrate the highest proficiency in Shakespearian studies. The entire sophomore class will read either Othello or Hamlet this year, and this production gave them the opportunity to test their understanding of the Bard’s language. The students delighted in the drama of the three-hour production, which is certain to enhance their reading of Othello later in the year.
Summer Study in Spain

Foreign language department chair Timothy Devaney reports on his summer trip to Spain with Blair students: “We traveled to Spain this June to participate in home-stays and study Spanish in Cádiz, an ancient Andalusian coastal town with beautiful beaches. The city is replete with history dating back to the Phoenicians and including a 500-year Moorish reign. The Blair students—including Carolyn Wan, Claire Ryder, Natalie Bacon, Elyse Pettaway, Ashley Zimmermann, Collin Browse, Dom Margiotta and Joe Park—stayed in the Old City whose narrow cobblestone streets offer cool shade in the otherwise oppressive Spanish sun. Cádiz hums with life all the time (taking a break for siesta of course), and Spanish children play in the plazas until late at night while families take in the night air and chat.”

Tim added, “The students integrated themselves into the life of the city, eating a late dinner with families and often meeting together for evening strolls, enjoying the current gelato trend in the city. One weekend, a group of three students traveled to Madrid to sightsee, while the other five took day trips to Jerez (where they soaked in Moorish baths) and Arcos de la Frontera, one of the famous white hilltop towns of Andalucía. The following weekend, the group went to Granada where they toured the dreamlike Alhambra and the Albayzin, or Moorish Quarter.”
Blair Students Traveling in Kenya Meet New Classmate

History teacher Quint Clarke led a community service trip to Kenya this summer, his fifth trip in seven years. He reports: “This past June, 14 students spent two weeks on a community service trip in Kenya, where one of the highlights was our visit to St. Patrick’s School in Iten to meet Kelvin Serem, a new Blair student. Serem joined the Blair community this fall as a new junior. He is known at St. Patrick’s for his friendly smile, his diligent approach to school, and his passion for running. His typical day involved rising at 4:00 a.m. for study hall, which ended right before dawn so that he could have some light for his morning five-to-eight-mile run. He returned for classes from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., when he was able to go out for his second run, followed by study hall until bedtime at 10:30 p.m. St. Patrick’s is the home to the fastest runners in the world, with many having achieved world records or Olympic gold medals.” Serem addressed the student body at a recent School meeting, and he has been a wonderful addition to the Blair community.

Thanks to support from parents, students, family and friends over the past three years, the Blair-In-Kenya program has accomplished the following:

- Delivered 5,000 pounds of clothes, shoes, computers, medical supplies and balls.
- Distributed nearly 250 soccer balls to schools throughout Kenya during the past two years.
- Started a micro-finance company that is funding over 50 small business projects.
- Donated over $13,000 toward educational programs, including constructing two classrooms in one of the poorest schools in the country, supplying four new computers, a printer and backup system at another school; funded lunches for 25 students at another; and donated over $3,000 toward student scholarships and specific school programs around the country.
- Initiated a school lunch program that provides simple lunches for students in one school.
- Sponsored the school fees, books and school uniforms of 24 students.
- Created a scholarship program to reward high-achieving students.
- Began an initiative to provide small-scale windmills for personal electricity for those who currently have none.
PILOT PROGRAM INTRODUCES POWERFUL TABLET PCs TO BLAIR

This fall, Blair faculty members gained an exciting new tool to help make subjects from calculus to history come alive: Tablet PCs.

The devices were introduced in a pilot program, giving teachers dynamic new capabilities for presenting visual materials and teaching students.

Director of Technology Sam Adams describes the Tablet PC as a “very fast laptop” with numerous advantages over a traditional desktop workstation: the Tablet PC is wireless, allowing teachers to work anywhere on campus, not just in an office; the device can be used with a keyboard or, at the twist of a wrist, as a tablet (think iPad); and perhaps most importantly, the Tablet PC can be integrated with wireless projectors in the classroom, giving teachers the ability to put text and images on a screen for their students to not only view, but also to interact with using a digital pen. Onscreen images can be saved, printed, e-mailed or uploaded to the internet, so teachers have many options for preserving and/or disseminating classroom presentations.

“I am very excited about this new technology initiative,” Sam said, noting that the 24 teachers who are involved in the pilot program have been enthusiastic about using the Tablet PCs in and out of the classroom. The teachers will continue to attend training sessions and experiment with the devices throughout the year, becoming knowledgeable resources for fellow faculty members as the next wave of teachers are brought into the program next year.

MATH TEACHER Nate Molteni

Nate Molteni has been using a Tablet PC in his statistics, geometry and AP Calculus A classes this fall, and he sums up the new technology in a word: powerful. “With the Tablet PC, my notes, records and problems are organized in one place, which makes teaching incredibly efficient. I can go from a daily quiz, to notes, to problem-solving without wasting a moment of class time.” Nate likes that he can be “at the board” while roaming anywhere in the room, and students like that they can go to the “board” right from their seats. “The best thing about the tablet is that it opens up opportunities to teach more effectively,” Nate said. He’s currently experimenting with creating step-by-step problem-solving videos, complete with voiceover, that can be e-mailed to students. Think how much you would have appreciated that kind of help with your math homework!

Nate Molteni introduces the integrated technology of Tablet PCs into his calculus class as part of the strategic plan’s focus on academics.

In 1926, radium was a miracle cure, and luminous watches were the latest rage—until the girls who painted them began to fall ill with a mysterious disease. Inspired by a true story and set in Orange, N.J., Radium Girls follows the efforts of Grace Fryer, a dial painter, as she fights for her day in court. This “dramedy” offers a wry, unflinching look at American obsessions with health, wealth and the commercialization of science.

His thirst for blood soon expands to include his unfortunate customers, and the resourceful proprietress of the pie shop downstairs soon has the people of London lining up in droves with her mysterious new meat pie recipe! Sweeney Todd is a mix of fun and dark humor.

WOOD SCULPTURE
November 28–December 3, 2011
Japanese-born artist Mayumi Sarai exhibits her intensively carved wood sculpture. She notes that the organic form of her abstract work “often refers to beauty of nature and power of life.” She adds, “The meaning of what I make often develops spontaneously through the combination of memory and the act of creating. With simple chisels and hand saws, my approach to wood is very traditional and time-consuming. Through this labor-intensive work, I like to show the quiet beauty of nature and the power of life in a contemporary, visual language.”

VICKI DIAMOND/ JEANINE ERICKSON
December 5–16, 2011; January 2–7, 2012; December 8 Reception
This show brings together the multimedia creative works of local artists Jeanine Erickson and Vicki Diamond. Glass, geodes, fossils, metal, gourds, alpaca and llama fiber, goat skins, stone, cement and beeswax are included among the natural elements with which the artists work to create beautiful pieces that express the fluidity of nature and the universality of simple form. (See inside front cover of this issue for a sample of Erickson’s work.)

CHRISTINE MAYES ’03: CYCLICAL TIME
January 9–February 4, 2012; January 12 Reception
In this show, artist and fashion designer Christine Mayes (Blair Class of 2003) highlights the amalgamation of the study of painting and the execution of design. Her body of work is always inspired by complex systems ranging from city grids, human anatomy and process in minimalist art. She said, “My multi-disciplinary approach to my career and body of work adds dimension to the undertone of the show. There will be a sense of timelessness, or ‘returning’ to a place.” All proceeds from this show benefit ECPAT International in the fight against child trafficking, prostitution and pornography.

CHRISTINE HARTMAN
February 6–March 3, 2012; February 9 Reception
Hartman’s seemingly ordinary subjects—still life and figures—are not copied representations but reconstructions of a complex visual world. The underlying geometry in the paintings, seen in the drawings, exposes the scaffolding and careful planning by the artist and builds the tension in these remarkable paintings. Hartman’s works create an interplay of space and form that push and pull you to arrive at her chosen destination—a sense of presence in an extraordinary world.

TONY SERIO: CITYSCAPES AND HUDSON RIVER GREENWAY LANDSCAPES
March 5–April 21, 2012; March 29 Reception
This show consists of Northern Manhattan cityscapes and landscapes. The cityscapes focus on the relationship between architecture and the area’s unique urban design, while the Hudson River Greenway landscapes highlight the city park’s integration of recreational areas with the West Side Highway along the river. The exhibition includes the “plein air” paintings that serve as studies for visually compelling compositions, which integrate architecture, landscape and the cultural vitality of the area.

Student art also appears in various other venues around campus, allowing members of the Blair community to appreciate the talent among us.

BLAIR VIDEO
Blair video students produce a variety of work, including documentaries, experimental works and fiction films. The curriculum covers technical and theoretical aspects of the production process, from planning and shooting to editing and postproduction. A unique part of the program is its multi-disciplinary nature; students make video installations and integrate their video work with music and performance art. Screening times will be posted on the website as they are scheduled.
Dear Alumni, Parents and Friends,

I am pleased to report on Blair Academy’s financial position as of June 30, 2011, the conclusion of our 2010-11 fiscal year. In order to navigate through continued uncertain economic times, we have chosen a fiscally conservative course in terms of investments, endowment draw and expenditures. At the same time, we have sharpened our focus on fundraising and admission, with excellent results. Thus the School’s financial performance remains positive, and we are well-positioned for both continued short-term fiscal prudence and increased long-term security as we work to ensure a Blair education not only for this generation of students but also for future generations.

Over the past fiscal year, three key factors contributed to the strength of the School’s current financial position: record fundraising, full enrollment and conservative endowment draw. The impact of all-time-high Blair Fund support from alumni, parents and friends cannot be underestimated. Alumni and parent gifts each topped the million dollar mark, and alumni achieved 33% participation for the first time in School history, while more than 80% of parents contributed. The Blair Fund provided 11% of our operating revenue last year, and these record-setting numbers represent a growing awareness among alumni and parents of the vital necessity of unrestricted funds in providing a Blair experience of exceptional quality for today’s students.

Robust demand for a Blair education has strengthened admission. At present, tuition continues to represent our greatest source of operating revenue (see chart, opposite left)—thus, our admission efforts are vital to the overall financial stability of the School. It is worth noting, however, that last year we reduced our reliance on tuition as a percentage of our operating revenue—from 72% in FY 09-10 to 69% in FY 10-11—due to increases in both endowment income and ancillary operation revenue. The Trustees have endeavored to hold the line on tuition increases as much as possible. In addition, our commitment to providing financial aid to deserving students is as strong as ever: in FY 10-11, $4.4 million was awarded to 161 students, which represented 35% of our student body. The average award was $26,635.

Blair’s endowment saw over-all growth this year with the general improvement of the financial markets. This growth allowed us to return to our traditional, albeit conservative, endowment spending policy, withdrawing five percent of the 12-quarter, trailing endowment average. (In FY 09-10, in response to market decline, we used an alternative formula to reduce draw and preserve endowment principal.) In keeping with our conservative approach to endowment spending, any operating surplus is annually re-invested back into the endowment, reducing the actual percentage of our endowment draw. This year’s endowment draw provided 13% of operating revenue, compared to last year’s 11%, and our dependency on tuition was slightly eased. While endowment draw remains a critical component of Blair’s operating revenue, we continue to maintain a conservative spending policy in order to sustain endowment principal and enhance the School’s long-term financial security.

The Investment Committee of the Board of Trustees is responsible for the management of the Blair Academy endowment portfolio. This committee meets with our investment consultant throughout the year to review the portfolio and asset allocation before making decisions regarding potential changes in investments. On June 30, 2011, the Blair Academy endowment had a market value... of $66,364,448. The over-all performance for the Blair endowment during the last fiscal year was a total return of 22.5% vs. the targeted benchmark return of 20.6% over the same time period. The table on the previous page shows endowment performance over the last four fiscal years.

Given the current global economic outlook, the Investment Committee increased the endowment’s allocation of “real assets” last year, a strategy designed to diversify our portfolio and protect against inflation. The year-end asset allocation of Blair’s endowment portfolio is detailed on the chart, above right. The long-term investment objective of the Blair Academy endowment portfolio is to attain a total return on endowment assets, net of manager fees, to meet the annual spending requirements of the School while also providing for the long-term growth of the endowment on an inflation-adjusted basis. The growth of Blair’s endowment remains one of the Board’s most important financial objectives.

The Board of Trustees adopted Blair’s strategic plan, “Building on Strength,” at its January 2011 meeting, and we have since undertaken several physical plant improvements to meet the plan’s objectives. A prime example is the renovation of seven faculty dormitory apartments this summer, a project that included kitchen and bathroom replacement, flooring installation, appliance upgrades and painting throughout. The goal of this project is to retain our best faculty in the dorms with the students by providing modern, comfortable family housing, and the faculty members who live in the newly renovated apartments are pleased with the changes. Fourteen additional apartments are slated for renovations over the next two summers: we fully expect this project to pay dividends for decades to come.

In response to the strategic plan initiative calling for the pursuit of measures to minimize energy costs, we have installed a photovoltaic array on the roof of Hardwick Hall. The array will generate approximately 300 kilowatts of electricity (eight percent of campus electrical use), reducing the School’s outlay for utilities.

Additional physical plant projects that align with strategic initiatives are currently being planned including the expansion of science and math facilities; upgrades to student dormitory housing; and the improvement of the School’s main and golf course entrances to better reflect the historical beauty of the main campus. Work on these projects will proceed as funds become available for their completion, and we will look to our dedicated constituency for support.

The strategic plan will guide every aspect of our work at Blair Academy over the next five years. “Building on Strength” outlines the steps we must take to ensure a quality Blair experience for the students of today and tomorrow. Our current course of conservative fiscal management will not only help us navigate the volatile economy but will also keep Blair moving steadily toward a secure future.

Sincerely,

James Frick
Assistant Headmaster for Finance and Operations
Dear Members of the Blair Community,

It is with particular pride that I present the 2010-2011 Blair Academy Annual Report, because it paints a portrait of a School that is financially sound, loyally supported across all constituencies and poised to meet the challenges of the future. This year’s Blair Fund results are especially noteworthy—parent participation remained outstanding, while new records were set for alumni participation and both alumni and parent giving. In total, $2,579,737 was contributed to the Blair Fund this year, an all-time record for the School.

The true significance of these accomplishments lies not only in the numbers, but also in the means by which they were achieved. Volunteer outreach, alumnus to alumnus and parent to parent, was the cornerstone of this tremendous effort, and it created a groundswell of support from those who recognize the lifelong worth of a Blair education. Thank you to all who gave to Blair this year and very special thanks to our alumni and parent volunteers.

As we look to the future and the implementation of the strategic plan, we will build on this year’s success to strengthen Blair Academy. The ever-growing support of alumni, parents and friends is a clear indication of the value of the Blair experience and of the importance of continuing to provide this experience for the next generation of students.

Sincerely,

James P. Jenkins ’66

The Alumni Challenge Committee was established to increase personal outreach in support of the $250,000 Alumni Challenge. This group of committed alumni volunteers gave generously of their time and resources to encourage leadership giving to the Blair Fund. As a result of the committee’s dedicated efforts, one-third of the alumni body supported the School financially this year, and the Alumni Challenge was a resounding success.

Anniversary Club
The Anniversary Club was created in 1998 to commemorate the 150th anniversary of Blair Academy. Alumni who have not yet celebrated a 10th reunion and give in the range of $100 to $249 create a solid base upon which to build the next 150 years.

IN MEMORY OF...

George D. Senter. One of Blair’s most generous benefactors, Mr. Senter was a long-time class representative and a loyal, enthusiastic Blair alumnus for life. A journalism major during his Blair years, he served as editor-in-chief of the Breeze and ACTA and president of the Press Club and Stylus. “We all know George will always be on the front page of life,” states the 1938 ACTA. Mr. Senter entered Brown University with the class of 1942, but interrupted his education to serve five years in the U.S. Army during World War II as an anti-aircraft gun unit commander, general’s aide-de-camp and mathematics instructor. This final assignment awakened an interest in teaching, and soon after his 1947 graduation from Brown, Mr. Senter began a 36-year career in education. He was a faculty member at The Hill School in Pottstown, Pa., from 1952 until 1983, establishing a reputation as a strict but beloved dorm master, gifted mathematics teacher and devoted business advisor to The Hill News. In 2003, he became the first non-Hill graduate to have a school dormitory, Senter House, named in his honor. Hill School Headmaster David R. Dougherty characterized Mr. Senter as a “Hill icon” and shared these words with the school community following his passing: “For 31 years and beyond, George Senter was an inspired, inspiring and sustaining influence of 56 years, Cynthia, their four sons, seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

1940

William M. Grover Jr. A World War II U.S. Navy veteran, Mr. Grover owned W.M. Grover Galleries and Bacova Gallery in Bath County, Va. He lived for many years in Gloucester, Va., where he served on the board of Sanders Nursing Home and was an active member of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities. Mr. Grover was an alumnus of the College of William and Mary and a varsity letterman in soccer and fencing (captain) at Blair. He is survived by his loving wife of 65 years, Mary, four children, five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Mark A. Chramiec. Mr. Chramiec spent five years at Blair where he was an honor roll student and accomplished musician. He earned undergraduate and graduate degrees in ocean engineering and physics and worked in Raytheon’s submarine signal division for 34 years, testing and improving various military and oceanographic sonar systems for the U.S. and international navies. Mr. Chramiec held five patents and published 20 papers covering a range of underwater acoustic devices. An avid sailor, he was a member of the Newport Yacht Club for many years.
